Greece Must Give Up Thrace Or Fight Single Handed
ATHENS, GREECE, Oct. 7.—(By the United Press)—Athens was faced with this dilemma today: "Surrender of Eastern Thrace or fight single-handed." Members of the revolutionary government of George II, who are on record as favoring use of the new revolutionary army to hold Thrace were in constant conference to decide on a policy. In case the government decides to fight it would have not only the Turkish army, but solid opposition of allies to contend with. The Thracians, according to word received here have sworn to fight rather than evacuate. The evacuation of the Greeks from Thrace is reported provided for in the allied decision. A committee of Thracians visited the American Charge D'Affaires and asked for American support of Greece's claim on Thrace. It has been announced that ten thousand Greek soldiers have been concentrated in the Chalkida district. Former Premier Venizelos, who had been named by the new government as the Greek representative abroad, continues to cable the cabinet emphasizing importance of reorganizing the army.

Tells Of Work In Alaska

All who were fortunate enough to be present in All Saints' Church last night when the Rev'd William A. Thomas, of Point Hope, Alaska, told the story of his work in this Arctic community, were loud in their praise of his most interesting lecture. Scores of beautifully finished hand-colored stereoscopic slides prepared from original photographs were thrown upon a large screen and did much to add to the interest of the wonderful story told by the lecturer. Mr. Thomas invited questions from the audience and they were prompt to respond to his invitation. After prayer by the Rector the speaker was introduced by the Hon. H. T. Bannion who has traveled extensively in parts of the Alaskan wilderness. An interested listener was the Rev'd Dr. Jackson who showed his interest in the lecture by asking many questions and at the request of the Rector closed the meeting with a beautiful prayer. Of all meetings of this character held in All Saints' Church for many years past this was by common consent by far the most interesting. Mr. Thomas addressed a large conference of the women of the parish in the afternoon.

FOUR YOUNG MEN WHO BEAT BOARD BILL AND STEAL CAR HERE ARE CAUGHT IN CHILLICOTHE

Brought Back; Sent To Jail

Fines of $25 and costs and a jail sentence of 30 days on charges of defrauding an innkeeper and held to the grand jury on $1,000 bonds formed the results of the trials of J. J. Moore, 22, Columbus, A. L. Horton, 20, Wise, Va., Ed Minor 24, Berdine, Ky., and H. T. Wington, 23, of Knoxville, Va. in Municipal court this morning when the four young men were tried on charges of leaving an unpaid board and room bill at the Washington hotel and for stealing an automobile from Frank Schlehneger, auto dealer of Third street.

The arrests of the four men were made in Chillicothe Friday on orders of the local Chief of Police Joseph Distel. He wired to Chillicothe to have four young men strangers picked up and within a short time the men wanted were in charge of the police of that city. They were returned to Portsmouth Friday night by Captain Lee Startzman and Sergeant Dan Miller.

The ditching of the machine taken from this city at Three Locks on the Scioto Trail near Chillicothe played a big part in the capture of the men. Had the machine not ploughed into the ditch they would have probably made their getaway. After the car left the road Moore, weakened William McCorkle, a farmer and engaged him for four dollars to take the four to Chillicothe. Moore at first refused to pay McCorkle but when he threatened to enlist the aid of the police he paid. McCorkle thought the men acted suspiciously and notified the police who later arrested the men two being caught on the N. and W. fill and the others on Bridge street bridge near the city.

The four young men had led a sort of easy life the past few days in Portsmouth and probably thought they could get away with a borrowed Oldsmobile machine owned by Schlehneger. The young men had added to the list of complaints against them by issuing a $200 bogus check in payment for two automobiles that were to be purchased from Schlehneger and by obtaining from that Lyles and Everett Mason, West End young men $5.00 each under false pretenses. Lyles or Mason did not prefer charges against the four and no charges were preferred relative to the bad check. The charge of stealing the automobile is thought to be sufficient on which to hold the four for grand jury action.

Lived At Hotel

The four young men stayed at the Washington hotel three days. Thursday J. J. Moore who seemed to be the leader of the quartet called at the Schlehneger sales room on Third street and talked of purchasing automobiles for use in his business as a salesman for an automatic soda water fountain company. He practically decided upon two Oldsmobiles and later Thursday night presented a $200 check in part payment. Thursday evening he called at the garage and wanted to use the car for a short time. Mr. Schlehneger refused the use of the new cars but allowed Moore to use an old car. When Moore failed to return at midnight Mr. Schlehneger became uneasy and thought it was time to investigate. Inquiry at the hotel brought the information that Moore was not in. The auto dealer then got in touch with Portsmouth checking officials and learned the $200 check was bogus. He then got in touch with the police who started at work at once to locate the four young men. All nearby towns were called and police asked to keep a lookout for the men. Chief Distel who was on a leave of absence and not under pay of the city returned to his office and took direct charge of the work of tracing the men and their operations in this city.

In court this morning before Judge Stanley McCull of Municipal court all four pleaded not guilty. Horton Minor and Wington laid the blame on Moore claiming they were engaged by him as auto drivers and salesmen and that they were to receive a salary of $49.50 per week. They claimed Moore was paying their expenses and that they did not know he had taken the machine out of town without the owner's permission. They also claimed they thought Moore had paid the hotel bill as he was the man who registered for them. Moore on the stand told a different story claiming the other three knew all about his operations.

Horton and Moore were the only ones to take the stand this morning. Horton and Wington said that Horton's story was correct. It developed that Horton, Minor and Wington had been sailing under various names while here. Minor was known as Williams and Kirk while Horton was known as R. R. Roberts and Wington as W. L. Blair. Moore had used the Williams, Roberts and Blair names when he registered for them.

Horton claimed he met Moore in Williamson a week ago today and that Moore paid him $25 to take the train to this city and get them rooms at the hotel, the trio going in after Moore registered for them. Two rooms were secured. Horton claimed all four left the hotel via the lobby.

Cox On Stand
Robert Cox, clerk at the Washington hotel when the rooms were engaged and who was on duty when the four left, was also on the witness stand. He claimed Moore said the other three men were putting an automobile away. He also testified that when he went to the room with the police early Friday morning that a screen in one window was out indicating the men had left the hotel via the fire escape.

Moore on the stand claimed he never hired the other three fellows and that he paid their way on the train and expenses because they were down and out and did not have any money. He claimed to be a salesman demonstrating spark plug intensifiers. He did not deny giving the auto dealer a check but said he thought it was good. He testified that it was given to him by one of the other three and that he only endorsed it. The check was signed R. R. Roberts. He claimed that Schlehneger let him leave the machine for the entire evening as he wanted it for a party. Asked if he did not intend to go to Columbus in the machine instead of staying here, Moore declared they were only going to Chillicothe and meant to return here. Asked about the hotel bill he said that he had made arrangements to pay it Saturday morning. The hotel bill against Moore is $17.20 against the other three $16.75 each.

Thursday they stepped up to Pat Lyles and Everett Mason, Lyles and Mason told the police, and told them they were anxious to engage the services of two chauffeurs. The two West End young men agreed to engage themselves. The stipulation on the part of these four youths was that Lyles and Mason pay them $5.50 as an evidence of good faith. It was charged at the police station last night.

Lyles and Mason say they paid the $5.50 apiece and were to report for duty Friday morning. The police said last night that the youths admitted the theft of a Hudson touring car in Bluefield, or Williamson, W. Va., and admitted abandoning it at a farm house near Kenova.

Wind Up Business At Conference

All business of the first annual session of the Southern Ohio district of the A. M. E. church, which has been in session this week at Allen Chapel, was cleared up today when pastors made the last of their reports on finances and the conditions of their charges. The morning and afternoon sessions were given over to this conference business in order that no ses-

Tomorrow the officers of the conference and visiting pastors will take part in the regular services of the church. The assignments of pastors in this district and the selection of the place for the conference session next year will be made Sunday night by Bishop J. H. Jones.

Times And Wet Amendment

Editor of Portsmouth Times: The State of Ohio owes you a debt of appreciation for your righteously rebuke of the defunct brewery interests in trying to set aside the Constitution of the United States. In order that they may come back with their nefarious business. I fear that many of your readers may have overlooked your strong, sane utterances on this subject. Your words are so unanswerable, and so timely as we are only one month away from the testing vote on this infamous proposition, that I ask, in behalf of many thousands of others as well as for myself, the privilege of quoting from your two special editorials on this burning question. I have seen nothing better anywhere. Every good citizen, man or woman, ought to circulate your statements from this day till after November 7.

You well say: "We see neither sense nor reason in the decision of a majority of the Supreme Court by which the beer and wine amendment is ordered on the ballot to be voted on at the November election. Why did the Ohio Supreme Court act as it did, and what did it mean? Is it declaring for states' rights and nullification, as did the Legislature and courts of South Carolina in 1822? We wonder now what the high court would do if some energetic person were to put forth a petition under the Initiative and Referendum, calling for a vote on the question of whether or not murder should be declared a virtue instead of a crime? If the court were logical it would order the question on the ballot, would it not?"

Our own position on this question of Prohibition is well known. We have never been wildly enthusiastic about Prohibition, but we consider almost reasonable such efforts at legislation as is proposed in the Initiative amendment to the Ohio constitution to be voted on next month. Its adoption would simply mean throwing mud at the Federal Constitution, no more, no less. We do not believe in that sort of business. We are opposed to the beer and light wine amendment. We hope every self-respecting citizen in this state will join in administering a smashing defeat to what, at best, is but an impudent and contemptuous defiance of the Constitution of the United States."

Your powerful editorial has already been widely published over Ohio, and it will do much toward saving our state from making itself ridiculous in the eyes of the nation. The press of other states is even now poking fun at Ohio for the foolish position into which the brewers of the land have forced us. Your second editorial of Thursday, October 5, deserves equal publicity. You therein declare: "We see no reason whatever to change our opinion. We see neither sense nor reason in the submission of the amendment. We intend to vote against it. We hope it will be smashed under an avalanche of votes, and we believe that it will be. It is born of deceit, and is treacherous and traitorous in its intent."

How could the truth be better expressed than in those trenchant words? Like you, I believe that there is too much saving sense in the public at large to resurrect the ghost of nullification, which brought on the dreadful Civil War of the sixties. The appeal of the liquor traffickers to produce a bonus fund from an action so disloyal to the Union, certainly can find no sanction in the minds of intelligent veterans, who know that it was just such treason as this to the United States that caused them to leave home and cross the seas in the perils of war. When the returns show on November 8, that Ohio is still loyal to the flag and the national Constitution, The Portsmouth Times will share largely in the congratulations of a rejoicing people for its fearless defense of the right.

Coal Consumers Urged To Lay In Emergency Supply

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—(By A. P.)—Domestic coal consumers in Ohio today were requested by State fuel administrator Neal to lay in a small emergency supply. At the same time, Neal directed an appeal to all retail coal dealers in the state asking them to limit coal prices voluntarily for such emergency sales, to the minimum figure consistent "with sound business policy, pending the announcement of fair prices held by the administrator."

"Lions" Are "Wild Wolves"

MOUNT VICTORY, O., Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—The lions which were claimed by Mount Victory residents to be roving this community for the past fortnight have been identified as wild wolves who have a mania for stealing pigs. It is declared by Michael Phelps, who says he caught them stealing pigs in his hog lot last night and his report was confirmed today by half a dozen other farmers whose pens have been visited by the animals during the night.

Phelps met the wolves when he went out to feed the swine. As he opened the gate two animals rushed out of the pen, one holding a squealing pig in his mouth, the other leading the way. Phelps shouted and started for the house. The beasts frightened, started in another direction. They dropped their pig en route and leaped a fence into a pasture where they stampeded Phelps' horses.

Among those who actually saw the wolves on their pig theft raid last night were Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. A. L. Carothers and her fifteen year old son, William, Frank Gabert and Tom Longberry.

Phelps declares he was within five feet of the animals as they fled. He says five of his young pigs have disappeared in the last week.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—Musk and misty cupped in the dark hollows of the Polo Grounds this afternoon when the Yankees met the Giants in the fourth game of the world series while old man gloom sat in the club house of the Yanks, who were reeling under two blows on the button from the aggressive National League champions.

The American leaguers were the home folks today and gave a friendly welcome to the Giants who planned to make it four straight over their hapless foremen and capture the crown of baseball.

The McGraw men believe that Thursday's tie game will be the nearest the Yankees will come to smothering a victory in this embroilment. "We have the Yanks on the dead run," said Heinie Groh, midge pitcher of the Yanks, "and we will keep them on the run. The Yankees were supposed to have a five-starred pitching staff but I have not seen it yet." A stamless mist closed in during the day, dampened the playing field, making prospects of a contest dubious and uncertain. The weatherman took a slant to the east and figured that the ocean breeze would bring showers before nightfall. The wind came in puffs from the east, bringing with it an intermittent drizzle.

Henry Fabian, groundskeeper, had the base paths, pitchers' and batters' boxes blanketed under heavy canopies. The outer gardens were in need of rain and the drizzle served only to ally the dust to top soil.

The crowd came early and the wet weather did not seem to rust the edge of its enthusiasm. Spectators placed newspapers upon the wet chairs and watched the threatening clouds.

Manager Huggins figured on Carl Mays to subdue the Giants with his submarine ball.

"Mays can pitch good enough ball to win," said Huggins, but our fellows have not seemed to bat behind him this year. Still, they don't appear to be batting behind any of our pitchers just now."

Some of the Yankees want to see Joe Bush in there pitching today. They say they have been lucky behind "Bullet Joe" all season and his last ball was made to order for a dark day.

John McGraw, riding high and pretty with two victories in the old bag can afford to gamble. He thought he would start McQuillan this afternoon. If he was right, but some of the Giants said he might uncover Nehf, his star southpaw.

Jess Barnes went into the box when the Giants took their turn at batting practice. McQuillan and Ryan, two of the Giant right handers took part in the workout.

It was a fine day for speed ball pitching. The muck lay thick over the playing field and it took over to follow the course of the ball as it left the pitchers' hands.

The bleachers were filled at 1:30 o'clock and there were only a few scattered vacant chairs in the upper stand.

Both clubs went through a fast fielding workout. A light rain continued to fall intermittently. It was quite dark. Every seat in the reserved sections was taken and another capacity crowd was in evidence.

UNIONTOWN, PA., October 7.—(By The Associated Press)—The most serious dynamiting in the Connellsville coke strike region in several months, occurred this morning when three heavy blasts closed the pit mouth of the Pottsville mine near Massena, destroyed the tipples and narrowly missed the fan house. Plans had been made to re-open the mine next Monday with non-union labor.

CORAL, ONT., Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—Searching parties returning today from outlying sections of the district devastated by forest fires on Wednesday, reported that the death toll was increasing steadily, one report stating that 31 bodies had been located.

Estimates of property damage range from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. The government is using aéroplanes in an effort to determine the extent of an catastrophe and to assist the survivors.

Dr. Townsend, pleased the congregation at the installation services of Rev. The teachers of the Fourth Street school enjoyed a delicious picnic dinner Thursday noon in the assembly room of the school. The affair was arranged in honor of the birthday anniversaries of three of the teachers, which come in this month. They are Miss Merle Little, Miss Bertha Kellman and Miss Helen Uhl. These three teachers decided to "treat" the other teachers in the building with ice cream and cake in honor of the occasion, and they reciprocated the favor by furnishing the picnic lunch to supplement the refreshments. The table was attractively arranged in the big assembly room, and prettily decorated with fall flowers. Plans were marked for the three honor guests, the Misses Merle Little, Helen Uhl and Bertha Kellman, and Misses Goldie Jones, Alaretta Scott, Alma Yeager, Jennie Brock and Anna Goodman.

The honor guests are both hale and hearty and were congratulated by scores of friends and relatives on rounding out fifty years of happy married life, living continuously on the same farm on which they now reside.

R. A. Walsh presents "SERENADE"

With Miriam Cooper And George Walsh
"Stop! Would You Break Your Vow?"

An exile, with a price upon his head, he had returned to his home at the risk of his life because he believed his love untrue.

"I am marrying him to save you from the gallows—because I love you," she whispered.

And again he thundered "STOP!"

"She is marrying to save a man who does not want to be saved. I am the man who killed the governor's son. Take me!"

Just one of the thrilling scenes in a fiery romance of Old Spain—a tale of undying love and wondrous adventure.

TWO PRISONERS SAW WAY OUT OF THE CITY JAIL WHILE TEN OTHERS SNOOZE SERENELY

Two prisoners confined in the city jail secured their freedom sometime during the night by sawing the bars of a window on the first floor and crawling through a hole in the bars that certainly made the prisoners squeeze themselves to get through.

One of the escaped prisoners is I. B. Smith, arrested several days ago and held for Alexander, Va., authorities. He was wanted in Alexandria on a grand larceny charge. It being alleged that he misappropriated money to the extent of $300.

Local police had received very little word as to the details of the crime with which Smith was supposed to be connected. He is thought to have been the man who saved the bars and planned the jail delivery.

J. W. White, who was fined $100 and cost Friday afternoon on a charge of possessing moonshine, was the other man who gained his freedom. He did not have any money to pay his fine and was to serve it out in jail.

There were about ten other prisoners in the jail who could have gained their freedom along with Smith and White, but they were asleep when the two got away and did not know they were gone until this morning, when the bars were found sawed.

James Foley, of the Service Department, who passed on the west side of the jail near the rear of the city building, discovered the broken bars about 6:30 o'clock this morning. He talked to Daniel Corrington, who was in on a disorderly charge, and he told Foley two of the prisoners who were there last night were missing.

Police checked up the prisoners and found Smith and White were the men who had escaped. On account of the small size of the hole in the barred window, police believe the prisoners had help from the outside.

It is also thought that Smith had been busy sawing for several days. For the last couple of days a blanket had been hung in front of the window and the prisoners said it was put there to dry and air out. Now police believe it was put there to hide the progress of the work on the bars.

Three upright bars and one cross bar were cut in two with the fine steel saw which must have been carried away by one of the two men, as it could not be found this morning.

Included in the number who had a chance to escape were the four young men arrested yesterday and brought back from Chillicothe.

They would have probably taken the opportunity to get away had they been awake at the time Smith and White made their escape.

CODDLING ATHLETES INELIGIBLE

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 7.—(By the A. P.)—The dismissal of eleven candidates for places on the Yale football team for delinquency in studies was revealed today by the Yale alumni weekly. The chief offenders were members of last year's championship freshman football team. The publication said that the patience of head coach Tad Jones, who dismissed the men was at an end.

"Coddling athletes who do not keep up their college work is poor business for all concerned," said the weekly. "We feel sure that the graduate body will stand back of the coach in his move to better football morals."

The New Rod Mill

That the public may know and fully understand just what progress has been made in providing sufficient houses for employees soon to be engaged by the Whitaker-Glessner Company, necessary in placing, in operation the Rod and Wire Mill, which we find most nearing completion at this time, we are pleased to say:

Our committee, recently appointed to work out plans whereby these houses may be erected along practical lines and which will be based on an investment income, without the need of soliciting contributions, is made up of Geo. E. Krieger, chairman, and associates, Frank M. Beggs, secretary and the Manufacturers Association, J. E. Shump, president Real Estate Board; Samuel Horchow, president Retail Merchants' Association, and Mr. Wm. H. H. Beck, secretary Building & Loan Companies.

This committee has organized and made the first essential step necessary to a study of the situation they are most positively going to meet.

From now on, you may be advised by the Times and Sun, day by day, the position to which the committee has advanced the proposition enabling every public spirited citizen to understand clearly just what percentage of income will arise out of any investment they may make in this splendid community enterprise.

SEEK TO BUILD BRANCH ON THE MORGANTOWN & WHEELING RAILWAY

WASHINGTON, October 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The Morgantown and Wheeling Railway Company applied today to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a certificate allowing it to build a 14 mile stretch of railroad between Waynesburg and Blacksville, on the West Virginia-Pennsylvania state lines. With this construction and by acquiring some short lines of existing railroads, the application said, the Morgantown and Wheeling Company would put into operation a complete route between Waynesburg, Pa., and Morgantown, W. Va. Permission was also asked to make the necessary changes of securities for acquiring the existing sections of railroads, but no estimation was given of the cost of the new construction.

If Ugoir, receiver of the Dayton, Toledo and Chicago Railroad, also filed an application with the commission, asking authority to abandon its entire 50 mile line running from Delphos to Stillwater Junction, both in Ohio, Very large losses have been incurred in the attempt to operate the property, the receivers' application said, and the line was now unsafe to move trains over, and could not be put into shape without the expenditure of additional sums which cannot be secured.

Baker's Cocoa

is the ideal drink for growing children

Not only does its delicious flavor and aroma appeal to the palate but it supplies the body with a considerable amount of pure, wholesome and nutritious food.

Children, owing to their almost ceaseless activity, frequently require as large an amount of nourishment as adults, and good cocoa is a valuable aid in the carefully arranged diet. But its quality must be good and no cocoa can quite so well meet the requirements of dietitian, physician, nurse or house-keeper as "BAKER'S."

MOTHER SWALLOWS A NEEDLE; IS FOUND IN BABE'S SHOULDER

STOCKTON, CAL., Oct. 7.—Three years ago, Mrs. Frank J. Schwab, who then was Miss Ethel Frick, swallowed a needle two inches long. Two months later she was married. Charlotte, her 22 months old baby began to cry yesterday and continued apparently without cause.

Mrs. Schwab investigated the little girl's repeated rubbing of a spot on her left shoulder and felt a foreign body under the skin. She probed and found the needle. The head of the needle had disappeared. The blunt end of the needle finally protruded and the mother withdrew it. Neighbors were present when she withdrew the needle. The mother and daughter had never suffered pain from the needle until the girl found it in her shoulder.

SPENT HALF HER TIME IN BED

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn.—"Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past."—Mrs. E. T. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain.

If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a trial.

By this time Stony was furiously mad and he swung wildly at Jack. His blows went astray, however, as Jack dodged cleverly. Then Jack delivered a quick punch and Stony went down.

It was easy to see that Jack knew too much about boxing for Stony. "I've had enough," shouted Jack's victim. "You shure can fight, young fellow, and I quit." Continued.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS DARTON

LIGHT FINGERS was as cross as 40 hens when the Twins got away in the magic automobile out of the fog he had dumped down on them.

"Oh, you're no good at helping," he growled to Comet-Legs as he hopped off the star the two of them had been riding. "I can think of more things myself. Goodby!"

He waved his hand and jumped down to the earth and hunted up the Sour Old Witch who lived in under a waterfall.

He was afraid to go back to Twelve Toes, his master, for fear of getting another scolding. You see, it was Twelve Toes who had ordered Light Fingers to stop the Twins and get the magic automobile. He wanted it for himself.

Well, Light Fingers had done everything he could, but it was of no use. The Twins were chug-chugging back to the Fairy Queen's Palace at that very minute as fast as they could go.

So off he hiked to the Sour Old Witch under the waterfall, just as I told you.

"Greetings, son," she cackled when she saw him coming. "Waste no words for I already know your trouble. You should have come to me sooner."

On an average, 100 veterans of the Civil War die every day.

"I have been using Hokaer," says Elizabeth Bankes of Rochester, N. Y., "for an ulcerous skin trouble that tormented and pained me so that I lost 30 pounds in three months. I had tried everything that I knew of but continued to get worse all the time until I began using Hokaer, which cured me in four days. It seems too good to be true. I will be glad to give any sufferer full particulars."

If you are afflicted with any form of skin trouble, don't wait another day but go now and buy a jar of Hokaer, the graceless antiseptic cream that is so clean and pure, it will not even soil the linen when used on the body.

Fisher & Streich Pharmacy and all good druggists sell a good big jar for 60 cents on the money back if dissatisfied plan.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

ONE reason why early marriages were not the rule in Prussia and Poland in the old days, was because a woman had to be such an expert housekeeper before she was considered eligible for matrimony.

Besides a thorough knowledge of cooking she was supposed to have wrought cloth enough to make garments for every person at her wedding. Brides of 30 and 40 were the rule.

FLAMING JEWELS

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The great crisis in JAMES DARRAGH's attempt to gain possession of the flaming jewel and restore it to the beggar.

COUNTESS OF ESTHONIA, was at hand. Facing him in the moonlight, an automatic in his hand, a sworn declaration to kill him on his lips, was MIKE CLINCH, who would stop at nothing.

The flaming jewel was first stolen from the countess by QUINTANA, the great international thief, and then from Quintana by Clinch, who had taken it to his camp in the Adirondacks, where he lived with his beautiful step-daughter.

EVE STRAYER, Darragh, working light, an automatic in his hand, at Clinch's under the name of MAL SMITH, learned that Quintana's gang had arrived to steal the gem from Clinch. His plans were upset when he was recognized as a former officer with the American troops in Russia. Clinch immediately forced him at the point of an automatic into the woods. They stopped by the side of a bottomless swamp-hole.

Go on With the Story CHAPTER IV

On the edge of the sink-hole, they halted. Smith turned and faced Clinch.

"What's the idea?" he asked with a quaver.

"Was you in Russia?"

"Yes."

"Was you an officer?"

"I was."

"Then you're spyin'. You're a top."

"You're mistaken."

"Ah, don't hand me none like that! You're a State Trooper or a Secret Service guy, or a plain, dirty cop. And I'm a-going to croak you."

"I'm not in any service, now."

"Wasn't you an army officer?"

"Yes. Can't an officer go wrong?"

"Soft stuff. Don't feed it to me. I told you too much already. I was bobbin' drunk. I'm drunk now, but I got sense. D'you think I'll run chances of sittin' in State's Prison for the next ten years and leave Eve out here alone? No. I gotta shoot you, Smith. And I'm a-going to do it. G'wan and say what you want."

"If you think there's some kind of a gun you can square before you croak."

"If you go to the chair for murder, what good will it do Eve?"

"Mal Smith. His lips were crackin' dry; he moistened them."

"Sink holes don't talk," said Clinch.

"G'wan and square yourself. If you're the church kind."

"Clinch," said Smith unsteadily, "if you kill me now you're as good as dead yourself. Quintana is here."

"Say, don't hand me that. I'm a-going to croak you."

"I tell you Quintana's gang were at the dance tonight—Piquet, Salmar, Georgiades, Sard, Beck, Jose Sanchez—the one who looks like a French priest. Maybe he had a beard when you saw him in that cave washroom."

"What?" shouted Clinch in sudden fury. "What're you talkin' about, you poor dumb dingo? Yeh didn't know me? What do you know about Quintana? Are you one of Quintana's gang, too? Is that what you're up to, hidin' out at Star Pond. Come on, now, out with it. I'll have it all out of you now, Hal Smith, before I plug you."

He came lurching forward, swinging his heavy pistol as though he meant to brain his victim, but he halted after the first step or two and stood there, a shadowy bulk, growling, enraged, undecided.

And, as Smith looked at him, two shadows detached themselves from the trees behind Clinch—silently, silently glided behind—struck in utter silence.

Down crashed Clinch, black-jacked, his face in the ooze. His pistol flew from his hand, struck Smith's leg; and Smith had it at the same instant and turned it like lightning on the murderous shadows.

"Hands up! Quick!" he cried, at bay now, and his back to the sink-hole.

Pistol leveled, he bent one knee, pushed Clinch over on his back, lest the ooze suffocate him.

"Now," he said coolly, "what do you want of Mike Clinch?"

"Who are you?" came a sullen voice. "This is none of your bloody business. We want Clinch, not you."

"What do you want of Clinch?"

"Take your gun off us!"

"Answer, or I'll let go at you. What do you want of Clinch?"

"Money. What do you think?"

"You're here to stick up Clinch?"

"Yes. What's that to you?"

"What has Clinch done to you?"

"He stuck us up, that's what! Now, are you going to keep out of this?"

"No."

"We ain't going to hurt Clinch."

"You bet you're not. Where's the rest of your gang?"

"What gang?"

"Quintana's," said Smith, laughing. A wild exhilaration possessed him.

"Turn your backs and sit down," he said. As the shadowy forms hesitated, he picked up a stick and hurled it at them. They sat down hastily, hands up, back toward him.

"You'll both die where you sit," remarked Smith, "if you yell for help."

Clinch sighed heavily, stirred, groped on the damp leaves with his hands.

"I say," began the voice which Smith identified as Harry Beck's, "if you'll come in with us on this it will pay you, young man."

"No," drawled Smith, "I'll go it alone."

"It can't be done, old dear. You'll see if you try it out."

"Who'll stop me?" Quintana?

"Come," urged Beck, "and be a good pal. You can't manage it alone. We've got all night to make Clinch talk. We know how, too. You'll get your share."

"Oh, stow it," said Smith, watching Clinch, who was reviving. He sat up presently, and put both hands over his head. Smith touched him gently on the shoulder and he turned his heavy, square head in a dazed way. Blood striped his visage. He gazed dully at Smith for a little while, then, seeming to recollect, the old glare began to light up his pale eyes.

The next instant, however, Beck spoke again, and Clinch turned in astonishment and saw the two figures sitting there with backs toward Smith and hands up.

Clinch stared at the squatting forms, then slowly moved his head and looked at Smith and his leveled pistol.

"We know how to make a man squeal," said Harry Beck suddenly. "Hell talk. We can make Clinch talk, no fear! Leave it to us, old pal. Are you with us?" He started to look around over his shoulder and Smith hurried another stick and hit him in the face.

"Quiet there, Harry," he said. "What's my share if I go in with you?"

"One-sixth, same's we all get."

"What's it worth?" asked Smith, with a motion of caution toward Clinch.

"If I say a million you'll tell me I lie. But it's nearer three—or you can have my share. Is it a go?"

"You'll not hurt Clinch when he comes?"

"We'll make him talk, that's all. It may hurt him some."

"You won't kill him?"

"I swear by God—"

"Wait! Isn't it better to shoot him after he squeals? Here's a lovely sink-hole handy."

"Right-o!" We'll make him talk first and then shove him in. Are you with us?"

"If you turn your head I'll blow the face off you, Harry," said Smith, cautioning Clinch to silence with a gesture.

"All right. Only you better make up your mind. That coo is likely to wake up now at any time," crumbled Beck.

Clinch looked at Smith. The latter smiled, leaned over, and whispered:

"Can you walk all right?"

Clinch nodded.

"RIGHT-O! WE'LL MAKE HIM TALK FIRST AND THEN SHOVE HIM IN."

"Well, we'll better beat it. Quintana's whole gang is in these woods, somewhere, hunting for you, and they might stumble on us here, at any moment." And, to the two men in front: "Lie down flat on your faces. Don't stir; don't speak; or it's your for the sink-hole. . . . Lie down, I tell you! That's it. Don't move till I tell you to."

Clinch got up from where he was sitting, cast one murderous glance at the prostrate forms, then followed Smith, noiselessly, over the stretch of sphagnum moss.

When they reached the house they saw Eve standing on the steps in her night-dress and bare feet, holding a lantern.

"Daddy," she whimpered, "I was frightened. I didn't know where you had gone."

Clinch put his arm around her, turned his bloody face and looked at Smith.

"It's this," he said, "that I didn't forgetting, young fellow. What you done for me you done for her."

"I gotta live to make a lady of her. That's why," he added thickly. "I'm much obliged to you, Hal Smith. . . . Go to bed, giddle."

"You're bleeding, dad?"

"Aw, a twig scratched me. I been in the woods with Hal. G'wan to bed."

He went to the sink and washed his face, dried it, kissed the girl, and gave her a gentle shove toward the stairs.

"Hal and I is sittin' up talkin' business," he remarked, hooting the door and all the shutters.

When the girl had gone, Clinch went to a closet and brought back two Winchester rifles, two shotguns, and a box of ammunition.

"Golly to see it out with me, Hal?"

"Sure," smiled Smith.

"Aw right. Have a drink?"

"No."

"Aw right. Where'll you set?"

"Anywhere."

"Aw right. Set over there. They may try the back porch. I'll just set here a spell, when I'll kind of nosey round. . . . Plug the first fella that tries a shutter, Hal."

"You bet."

Clinch came over and held out his hand.

"You said a face-full that time when you says to me, 'Clinch,' you says, 'Eve is a lady.' . . . I gotta fix her up. I gotta be alive to do it. . . . That's why I'm greatly obliged to yeh, Hal."

He took his rifle and walked slowly toward the pantry.

"You bet," he muttered, "she is a lady, so help me God."

Mootz Buys Hog

Fred Mootz of Empire community purchased a big type Poland China hog last week, to head his herd, which should greatly improve the pure-bred business not only with Mr. Mootz but the whole community.

This hog is a son of Highland Goliath, the grand champion boar at the Ohio State Fair this year owned by Brent Woodmire of Highland county. His dam is a Clansman bred sow and one of the winners at the Indiana State Fair this year. He therefore has a right to be a good individual, which he has already proven by winning over a hog of his age at the Clinton County Fair which stood third at the State Fair this year.

Mr. Mootz is one of the many "live wires" in the Empire community who are putting the pure-bred business on the map and with it the community. These folks are not ashamed to show the public the class of livestock and farm products they are producing, as evidenced by the fact that their third annual community fair will be held Thursday and Friday, October 26th and 27th, to which the public is cordially invited.

Explaining the Extension Service

A series of talks on what it is, what it does and how to get it, will be given by the Extension Service.

County Agricultural Agents

County Agent work in Ohio began in 1912 when H. P. Miller was appointed in Portage county. Before this agent began his work, a Portage County Improvement Association had been organized to improve the agriculture and the roads of the county. All such "improvement associations" have since become "farm bureaus."

Ohio county agents, then, have always worked through organized groups, rather than attempting to meet individual needs with personal service. Eighty-four of the 88 counties of the state now have such agents. In 24 counties, home demonstration or club agents have been appointed to assist in local extension work.

The county agricultural agent's job is to assist in the development of a program of improvement along the following lines: economical production, economical marketing, home life, and community development. In doing this he works through the county and township farm bureaus and with men, women, boys and girls.

All county agents have scientific training in agriculture. Extension specialists, with headquarters at the Ohio State University, are available to handle technical phases of farm problems but the agent can use the service of these specialists much better if he has a good general knowledge of the problems to be solved.

A county agent must have had practical experience in farming. He must be a good organizer, a good leader, and a good public speaker. Sincerity, hard work, tact, and patience enables him to gather round him the local leadership necessary to the development of a good county program.

Russell Man, Hurt Here; Dies

Albert Word, 27, of Russell, Ky., who was injured in an automobile wreck at the B. & O. underground crossing at Sciotoville September 14, died in the Deaconess hospital at Ironton Thursday afternoon.

Word and a friend from Russell and three women from Ironton had been to this city for the evening and were returning home when Word's machine turned over on the road near the underground crossing. It slipped over in a ditch and when Word who was driving attempted to turn sharply back onto the road it turned over, Word being caught by the heavy touring car which was badly damaged.

He was removed to Hempstead hospital where he was a patient about two weeks. An injury at the base of the spine caused paralysis from the hips down. Last week he was removed to the Ironton hospital and an operation was performed Wednesday by Dr. Vidi which restored the use of the limbs and young Mr. Word's recovery was anticipated. His condition took a change for the worse during the night, however, and the end came Thursday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Word, prominent residents of Russell, Ky. The deceased was one of Russell's best known and estimable citizens and for past years has been an engineer on the northern division of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. He was a great favorite among co-workers who, through his illness, have held out hopes for his complete recovery. He was single, leaving his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Word, and two brothers, Wm. Word, and one sister, Evelyn, all of Russell, to mourn his demise. An uncle, Albert Word of Lexington, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Art Jones of Ironton also survive.

POMERENE MAKES STATEMENT ON ATTITUDE ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

DAYTON, O., Oct. 7.—United States Senator Pomerene candidate for reelection, in an address here last night explained his votes for and against prohibition laws, asserting he was not trying to apologize but merely explain the votes, all of which he would cast again in the same manner if called upon. On the question of medicinal liquors he said "he would rather take the professional judgment of physicians than the political judgment of Anti-Saloon Leagues."

Movie Men Claim Church Movies Hurt Their Business; Church Defends Position

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7.—Debate over the question of competition of church movies against the neighborhood picture show marked the meeting today of the Ohio Motion Picture convention in session here, in which Rev. Raymond G. Clapp, Cincinnati, and Samuel Bullock, of Cleveland, state organizer of the "Motion Picture Owners of America," were the principals.

The convention is the first in Ohio in the interest of "better films" and is sponsored by the Cleveland Cinema Club.

Discussion concerning the extent to which churches may go in presenting motion pictures arose when Mr. Bullock called the "non-theatrical picture" a menace to the motion picture industry. He claimed this type of picture is growing to such an extent that drastic steps are needed in order to protect members of his organization.

Rev. Clapp told the convention that soon after his Sunday night movies in Cincinnati, O., had proved successful, a manager of a nearby theatre, objected because Mr. Clapp's "educational Sunday movie" was hurting his business and finally ended by all motion picture exchanges refusing to sell him pictures.

trade which is forcing the church to establish non-theatrical exchanges of our own."

Mr. Bullock contended that churches were encroaching on the organized industry's territory when they set a rival entertainment to the detriment of the theatre's business.

Receiver Named For Templar Motors Co.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7.—T. L. Hoasman of Lakewood, a suburb, was appointed receiver for the Templar Motors Company today on petition of the U. S. Axle Company of Pottstown, Pa., in which the Templar Co. joined.

The action followed filing of a bill of complaint by the Pottstown firm, which charged that the Templar Co. has debts approximating $140,000 which it is unable to pay. The axle company placed its claims at $12,500. The complaining places the valuation of the Templar properties at $3,000,000, but states it is unable to continue operation because of lack of working capital.

SPEAKING OF SUCCESSES, MONEY LEFT AFTER ALL PAGEANT BILLS PAID

An agreeable surprise was given executives when they held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office Friday afternoon and Treasurer Russell Anderson announced that a balance of $100 would be left probably after all bills had been paid. That this amount would be left on hand instead of a deficit was a surprise to the Association members who had worked hard that the Pageant might be a success financially as well as otherwise. To meet all deficits a guarantee fund of $8,000 had been pledged and it now seems assured that not a cent of this $8,000 will be called upon. Practically all bills have been paid and the balance of $100 remains. This will be turned over to the Bureau of Community Service as was announced at the start of the Pageant Association. By next week it will be possible to give a detailed account of receipts and expenditures.

There are several properties and costumes which have been or will be disposed of in various ways. The "log cabin" and "stone house" used in the pageant have been sold. A number of costumes, exclusive of those rented from the Philip Schwarzschm Co., of Cincinnati, will be utilized in various ways. The costumes used in the finale, particularly those of the Waterways, including "dams," "lakes," and "river," will be taken care of by Alan Jordan as he stated that they might be needed in the future, and he being interested in river projects will see that these robes will be safely stored away. The purple and cream vestments of the pageant chorus were turned over to the Ladies Musicians, which will make use of them when the community chorus goes to Jackson to take part in the Elstedtford.

Sarazen Leads Hagen

RYE, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Jens Sarazen national open golf champion, was leading Walter Hagen, American holder of the British open title, 2 up at the end of the first nine holes of the second day's play in their special match.

Right now the ladies are calling for "shiny" leathers in both pumps and oxfords. This cut shows one of my patent colt oxfords, light weight welt soles, perforated tip and fittings, rubber top lift on heel, one of the new medium round toe lasts so popular now — an oxford made right and one that fits — no not expensive for quality considered — five dollars. Ladies' silk hose $1.50 to $4.50.

FOR

McGRAW HARKENED TO GRAVE FOR PITCHER; SCOTT STALKS TO EARTH AND BEATS THE YANKEES

And Reds Turned Scott, Scott Free

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—Their aspirations cooled by the frigid breath of a ghost from baseball's graveyard, Miller Huggins' Yankees stood today in the shadows of their own tomb. They must recover from the blight of the phantom, Long John Scott, whose rattling Tarheel Bones gave them a scare yesterday from the likes of which only one team in world series history has recovered.

The unearthly pitching that the spook brought from the cemetery enough as if the balls were bits of ceratophan, and, in a worldly way of speaking, defeated them 3 to 0 in the third game of the world series. The defeat was the second in the series for the Yankees. In the series of 1921 the Giants set a precedent by winning the title after spotting the Yankees to the first two games.

Long John's pitching bones were laid to rest last July. Pat Moran, of the Cincinnati Reds, officiated at the obsequies. He had pronounced John's pitching days over, the dire was done and the baseball world soon forgot that John Scott had ever lived.

Then some world being communicated with Spiritized and Scott learned there was a dearth of pitchers. He turned over in his musty coffin, pushed out in his sides and stalked the earth. He liked it, decided to stay, got a job and showed faint signs of materializing. John McGraw of the Giants needed pitchers, and he would have them even if they had to be resurrected.

So the Giant figure of John Scott appeared yesterday on the mound they call the pitcher's box. Versed as he was in the tricks of the "beast" he put them where the Yankees couldn't see them. Everywhere a Yankee waved his bat there was an emptiness. Sometimes Long John let them tap them, depending on the support, and his dependence was well placed.

Most every living being in the baseball world is thinking about Scott today, but the Yankees are thinking of other things. Miller Huggins never wants to see a ghost materialize again and he's trying to forget about it by making desperate plans for today's game.

He believes that Carl Mays, who hasn't been having any great success with his underhanded delivery this year, might halt the advance of McGraw's men. If May doesn't hear out this belief Huggins is prepared to make a still more desperate play and send Bush into the game with but two days' rest.

McGraw, with two victories chalked, can afford no chances. He has nominated Hugh McQuillan for the pitching duty. Ryan, the youngster who relieved Nantz and worked so admirably for as short spell in the opening game, is to be kept ready for relief.

CONFERENCE TEAMS IN ACTION

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—Nine western conference football teams today were ready for the formal opening of the 1922 football season. Illinois was the only big ten school without an opponent. Eight of the nine active eleven entertained opponents rated beneath them while the University of Chicago, in the first of the year's big intersectional contests, had as a guest the University of Georgia.

Today's engagements on the midwestern front included Georgia at Chicago; Knox at Iowa; Carlton at Wisconsin; Millikin at Purdue; Ohio Wesleyan at Ohio State; DePauw at Northwestern; Case at Michigan; North Dakota at Minnesota; DePauw at Indiana.

Other games in the midwestern included Case at Ames; Grinnell at Missouri; Cornell at Drake; Oklahoma at Still Water; South Dakota at Nebraska; St. Louis at Notre Dame; Albion at Michigan Aggies.

World Series Notes

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—Six of the nine runs scored by the Giants since the series began were brought home by Irish Meusel. His clutch in the first game drove the two runs that tied the score and advanced a third runner so that he was able to trot in with the winning run on a sacrifice fly. The second day Meusel swatted a home run with two on base, giving the Giants all of their scores for the afternoon. Yesterday his single in the third sent Groh across the counting rubber. He got one hit a day, but each came when it was of utmost value.

Christy Mathewson, playing the reporter's role in this series, warmed up his writing arm before the game started by compiling with requests for autographs on baseballs, score cards, programs or whatever the home team's hunters have handy. Just before the start of yesterday's game, Garry Herrman, owner of the Cincinnati Reds left his box to pay a short visit of greeting to Matty. He did not bother Big Six with a plea for his signature.

Many a fan who craved a place among the 22,000 unreserved seats couldn't even get near the park yesterday 45 minutes before starting time. Police scattered in a loose hazy block from the Polo Grounds turned back every one who had no ticket after the upper grand stand and bleachers had been tightly packed.

Jack Dempsey was on hand again. He entered with as much quiet and calm poise as is usual when forty photographers and a hundred camera flashers surround a big man wearing a champagne colored cap. On the way to his seat Dempsey went out upon the field to exchange epigrams with John McGraw. Ten thousand fingers pointed him out to 20,000 eyes. Babe Ruth couldn't hit the ball beyond the infield. Three times Scott pitched with such exceeding skill that the home run slugger topped the ball so that it took a high bound and was fielded between first and second. The only time the bunting got on base was when Scott curved the ball into his ample anatomy.

VOLLEY BAL SEASON OPENS MONDAY

The first practice game of the Portsmouth Volley Ball Association was staged at Wilhelmette last evening.

Beginning Monday, October 9, the season will open, the first game scheduled being Leaders vs Steel Plant which will begin at five o'clock. According to the regulations adopted recently no player will be allowed to change from one team to another without his release by the captain, and no one will be permitted to change teams after the season is half over. Six players will constitute a team this year, no player, either regular or substitute will have the privilege of playing more than twice a week. All subs must report to the referee before playing. Here is the schedule of games which will be played next week, and which will be refereed by Selby Saddler:

Rain Is Welcome

Rain, welcome rain, fell in the city late last night, the first rain in over four weeks, according to Weather Observer, Dr. H. A. Schirman.

Eastern Elevens

Meet Real Foes

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Eastern college football elevens today generally faced the first serious opposition of the season with a number of intersectional games scheduled.

Harvard tackled Holy Cross at the Harvard stadium. The Worcester collegians held the crimson to a 3-0 score last year.

Princeton met Virginia at Princeton, Yale, which will play without many first string players, will match North Carolina in the bowl. The blue won last year by 34-0. University of Pennsylvania had the University of the South as a foe at Franklin field.

Cornell expected an easy game with Niagara.

University of Pittsburgh looked for a busy afternoon with the strong Lafayette team. Penn State tackled Gettysburg.

CINCINNATI, O.—Miss Amy Page has been appointed Cincinnati's official hostess to succeed Miss Marie T. Bibles, who was married recently.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—A special tax levy of a mill and a half, for relief of the schools, will be submitted at the November election. In addition the school board will issue $600,000 bonds.

Nearly 500,000 foreigners visit Paris each year.

Classy Fight Card

The boxing card to be presented at the Majestic theatre, Chillicothe next Tuesday evening is well balanced. The bouts which are being given under the auspices of the American Legion will no doubt draw a big crowd. Here is the card in full:

Preliminary—Sailor Cain, of Chillicothe vs Battling Yearick, of Lancaster, four rounds.

Second Prelim—Willard Hahn, of Columbus, vs Pete Sullivan, of Chillicothe, ten rounds.

Semi-Final—Harry Forbes, of Columbus, vs Tommy Kilrain, of Akron, ten rounds.

Main Go—Frankie Wells of Chillicothe, vs Brockie Chapman, of Columbus.

The Judgment Day

Its length, time, place and character will be shown from the Bible standpoint to-morrow evening at 7:30 in the school house on Mabert Road. Human theories and speculations will be explained and compared with the true statement of God's word. Nothing unreasonable or fantastic or sensational enters into the lectures or sermons of Bible students, the truth alone attracts the honest seeker after truth.

Perhaps you have heard this subject discussed before, come out and hear something different, and then your love and appreciation for the Old Book will be deepened. N. D. Edwards will be the speaker, and you are welcome.

What Is Truth?

Pontius Pilate's question will be the preacher's question in First Christian church pulpit Sunday evening. There may be occasions in life when truth and flattery are without crime, but never in the judgment hall with truth involved. We may not know just what motive was uppermost in the Roman judge's mind in giving sentence upon his prisoner; but we do know that his mood in flinging this fateful challenge about truth was wholly inept and whimsical. It is this lackadaisical humor, stupefying the able faculties, that inflicts a stain which oceans—not basins—of water cannot wash out. When men cease to be serious about truth, when they seek solace in any faith that is convenient and self-satisfying, their damnation is already begun. To watch truth disappear from the door-sill; to see her radiant face perish from the images of the heart; to dare her depart without speaking with finality to the soul, is a tragedy for this life, and the supreme tragedy for the life to come.

State-O. W. U. Open New Stadium

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—(By The Associated Press)—Honored as Ohio State's first gridiron opponent in the new million and a half dollar stadium.

Ohio Wesleyan met the Buckeyes here today in a game which followers of the sport hoped would give at least an inkling of Ohio's prospects as a contender for Western Conference laurels.

A line lacking much of experience, excepting for Captain Dixie at guard, and a backfield shifted to meet the loss of the line, the Buckeyes here today in a game which followers of the sport hoped would give at least an inkling of Ohio's prospects as a contender for Western Conference laurels.

which took the field today. In addition, injury of full back Michaels and temporary ineffectiveness of Young, experienced line man, had brought forth further problems. Among new faces were seen Ollie Klee, Dayton, at halfback, and Ian Hamilton, Canton, at full.

Martin, A. E. F. Champ, Knocked Out

OTWAY HI BEATS RARDEN, 15-7

Otway High School's baseball nine walked into Rarden yesterday and took the Rarden High boys into camp, returning with a victory of 15 to 7. A good sized crowd from the two villages saw the game and enthusiasm ran high.

McCall and Scott, with Clark behind the bat formed the batteries for the losing Rardenites, and Ingles and DeLong held forth for the Otway lads.

McCall and Scott, with Clark behind the bat formed the batteries for the losing Rardenites, and Ingles and DeLong held forth for the Otway lads.

NEW YORK—Floyd Johnson, California heavyweight, won a technical knockout over Bob Martin, heavyweight champion of the A. E. F., in the tenth round of their bout. Martin's seconds threw the sponge into the ring.

Martin's seconds threw a towel into the ring thirty seconds after the tenth round started. Martin opened the session by rushing to meet Johnson as he sprang from his chair, but Martin missed, his only chance had gone and he was absorbing heavy punishment when the surrender was made.

Johnson jumped into the lead in the first round, had his opponent dazed by the end of the third and was in undisputed command after the fifth round. Being a novice, Johnson became excited when he saw Martin's helpless condition and in his anxiety to land a knockout, was unable to place a decisive blow through Martin's lowered guard.

The Californian showed tremendous hitting power and a clever left hand, but he was slow. Martin made a game defense and in the latter rounds kept on his feet through instinct.

CANTON—Jack Wolfe, Cleveland bantam weight, and Midget Smith, New York, boxed 12 rounds to a draw. Jimmy Muehe, Niles, knocked out Ad Brennan, Akron, in the first round of the semi-final.

TOLEDO—Anthony Downey, Cincinnati middleweight, defeated Joe Packo, Toledo, in 12 rounds.

INDIANAPOLIS—Frankie Palmer, Akron bantam weight, outpointed Kid Herman, Pekin, Ills., in 10 rounds.

MARION, O.—Marion's new captain of police will be selected from a list of six patrolmen, who have taken a civil service examination. The post has been vacant since Captain Edward Hasleron was killed in an automobile accident, the night President and Mrs. Harding returned for the centennial celebration in July.

ADA, O.—"How to think" and "How to spend money," are a few of the subjects freshmen at Ohio Northern University are requested to take this year in a special course, designed to work them more quickly into the ranks of the older students.

SCIOTO COUNTY TAXES

SOME years ago the brilliant minds who are spending the tax money of Scioto county, decided they were not getting enough to spend and so not daring to raise taxes, they concluded to re-appraise property and increase its tax value. No sooner thought of than the thing was done. All one summer the appraisers worked and property was shot up to from 80 to 100 per cent of its saleable value. Blanks were all filled out ready for mailing. But were they mailed? No, no. An election was in the offing and so the tax valuation slips were held up. They were stacked in the county auditor's office, huge piles of them, and they were held there until the day after election. Then as a sort of normalcy gift to the dear tax payers they were mailed out. Scioto county real estate owners are paying far more than the average county in the state. Their valuation is higher. Their tax rate may not have been increased, but the taxes have because of the higher valuation.

The Times is going to present some interesting comparisons. We will give names, dates, figures.

The time has come for a change in county management.

EPOCHAL CHANGE? PERHAPS

CALCULATIONS made on the basis of earnings admitted by the Henry Ford industries indicates the latter might be capitalized at $2,000,000,000. It follows, according to the figures, that the Detroit manufacturer is the "richest man in the world," since he is understood to be virtually sole owner of all interests listed under his name. If the assumptions were warranted, what of it? They have no social significance.

But what is of exceedingly great significance is that hardly a breath of protest against the Ford accumulations of wealth are heard. Those who customarily rail violently against anyone known to possess in large measure the material representatives of successful business endeavor, the golden fruit of service, the substantial evidence of achievement in promoting the progress of civilization by increasing the comforts and conveniences of the people are silent with respect to the Ford fortune.

If this unaccustomed attitude toward vast wealth indicates a better popular comprehension of the significance of material accumulations measured in dollars it is something for which to be thankful. Many will be skeptical on this point, yet here may be the sign of an altered tendency which confirmed, would prove epochal. Comparisons being invidious, we shall attempt none as regards the relative merits of the Ford and other services to mankind that have yielded great profits. On sober appraisal it will appear to the just that there is credit sufficient for all the deserving if it is impartially bestowed. But it may reasonably be inquired if there is righteous cause for withholding public gratitude from one "empire builder" or group of this kind while praise, inferential if not articulate, is bestowed on another.

All the material, and we may say also the cultural, progress made by the human race has had its beginning in the universal inherent love of wealth. The railroad builders, the exploiters of natural resources, the scientific investigators and mechanical discoverers and inventors, the business organizers and all adventurers in new fields have been moved to action by the hope and prospect of monetary reward. Selfish they were, but no one who does a worth-while thing can retain all the benefits for himself. It is, indeed, only by sharing them that he can profit. The principle here has been too little understood. This perhaps accounts for the unreasonable public attitude toward those who have received substantial rewards for their services. If the people can be reconciled to the Ford fortune, as they should be, why should they condemn others also built up on service to mankind?

SCHOOL FOR WIFEHOOD

MOST cheering news for the prospective husband is contained in a statement by the head of the new department for women in the University of Cincinnati, the department for training girls for wifehood. The statement is that the course will contain the testing of foods on rats. Although there is no proof that food prepared for rats will appeal especially to husbands, it is reasonable to suppose that if the rat survives the husband will have a better chance.

The only discouraging thing about the course is the length of time required to complete it—five years. And there is no assurance for the girl who spends five years learning the profession of wifehood that she will be able to do any better matrimonially than the girl whose only recommendation is how to make fudge in a chafing dish.

The new school will not only train girls in the use and preparation of food, a knowledge of hygiene, how to design house furnishings, how to make a family budget and spend the family income, the management of help, the psychology of children and what books they should read, the study of textiles, architecture, landscape gardening and a few other little items, but will also teach not to become so absorbed in these matters as to neglect making herself attractive to her husband. But women with all these qualifications should be attractive enough for any man without having to go to any extra trouble about it.

The only way to make a record is to break some other fellow's.

It is all right to decide that only the smartest persons should be sent to college, but who is going to make the choice?

The abdication of monarchs is so common these days that the reported quitting of the sultan of Turkey scarcely causes a ripple.

Henry Ford is quoted as saying that he intends to use his wealth for the extension of industry. A pretty good way to use wealth.

An old-fashioned winter might persuade some girls to return to the belief that clothes were intended as protection to the body.

The Ford-president boom appears to be still waiting for a self-starter.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, October 7.—Night life in Manhattan is in the doldrums. Only a few supper clubs are making expenses. Saturday night is finding the town deserted. Pleasure seekers are cranking up the car and hitting it out of town for the road houses.

Here they are less likely to hear the police raiding raw at the door. Those postage stamp French cafes that bloomed in the ornate apartment houses are lifeless. The proprietor of eight has disposed of all but one and it is on the market.

Two months ago they were serving cocktails openly in delicate glasses and wine in silver buckets. Now the cocktails are served in bouillon cups and wine is taboo. Those who do not go to the road houses pack their bottles of inferior gin to apartments and turn on the victrola.

The musical exchanges are offering any number of jazz hands at reduced prices. And there are no takers. It is the time of year when New York steps into first speed, but it is dead now than it was in mid-summer, for then the tourists were having their fling.

The young man who, in the language of Broadway, spend their time trying to put the burners on the blondes are evidently sitting around the parlor lamp playing authors. Chorus girls are going direct home from the theatre and sending out for a sandwich, instead of the wine-washed midnight stack.

In the supprement of the supper clubs the other night, there were only a handful and headwaiters were placing customers in ordinary back seats of the limo side tables. Only the professional dancers turned about on the floor.

At a nearby table was a well known man about town, noted for his many romps to the altar. He was plainly bored. The vivacity of his companion was not contagious. A former wife happened to come in the room. He watched her for a long time and sighed: "I've lost some mighty good friends by marrying them."

Cafe managers say the spenders have not returned from Europe and that in another two weeks night life will jump into high.

The most interesting thing I notice in a tour of the supper clubs was an item on one of the menus which read: "Sparkling Grape Fruit." This should serve as a priceless lesson to the morning grocer.

Gold digging, too, is becoming one of the lost arts along Broadway. Broadway Brevities, the official oracle of the Great White Way, declares the time has come when "the Johns won't loosen." They are side-stepping the gilded cafes for the one-armed beaveries and most of them freeze up at the mere mention of a winter fur coat. "Stough!"

One of the writers of fashions for men declares that Jack Dempsey, the pugilist, is the best dressed man in

New York. He points out that at a conspicuous theatre first night recently Dempsey was the only man in the audience correctly dressed in every detail. He wore the proper wing collar and hat—a detail that all the others had missed—among other things.

New York has groups of young hoodlums who rent sight-seeing buses for an evening to ride through the town and hoot at pedestrians. In Harlem the other night they began shouting and jeering at a man who was returning home with a basket of eggs. The bus was caught in a traffic jam and the object of the jeers pelted them with his eggs. A traffic cop discreetly turned his head the other way. And the jeering ceased. Doc Koko's KOLUM

October Nymph

In the garden now I glimpsed her
With her rippling nut-brown hair,
Kissing fainting morning glories
Into new life. Everywhere
She goes a dancing, breathing fragrance
Cooling fragrance on the air.
Smoothing out petunia petals
Into crisp freshness fair:
She weds the salvia into bushes
Rivalling her scarlet cheek.
Blows salutes to starry dahlias—
Dances on, new scenes to seek:
Euphorbia down there by the paling
Summer saw it green and grow:
October found it and she sprinkled
Handfuls of her magic snow:
The purple and the scarlet runners
Laid their pods for her to see.
Assured her gentle touch will aid
Their prisoned tegants to be free:
Now, she beckons to the woodlands—
All is not yet seed and pod.
Behold her radiant smile reflected
In the plump goldenrod!

POLLY AND HER PALS

A Question of Spelling
A telegram was sent by an old lady asking the doctor to come to her husband, as he had gout. When the doctor arrived he found the old man in bed with bronchitis.
"What made you get your husband had gout when he is suffering from bronchitis?" asked the doctor. "You surely knew what was the matter with him?"
"Oh, yes, we know he'd got the bronchitis," replied the old lady cheerfully, "but neither of us knew how to spell it."—Co-Operator.

A Handicap
Teacher had been giving the class a little talk on honest methods at all times.
"Children," she said, "be diligent and steadfast, and you will succeed. Take the case of George Washington, for instance, whose birthday we always celebrate. Do you remember my telling you of the great difficulty George Washington had to contend with?"
"Yes, ma'am," said one little fellow promptly. "He couldn't tell a lie."

Perfect Equality
Father: "Why is it that you are always at the bottom of the class?"
Johnny: "It doesn't make any difference, daddy; they teach the same thing at both ends."

How We All Fall
Private Ulysses Roosevelt Jones was always longing for Alabam, but the case goods on the Best dock continued to pile up and Ulysses' life was plumb miserable.
"Boss," he said to his big black sergeant, "Boss, Ah's mighty sick o' dis yere lifin' and upliftin'. It's wuss dan de wah all over agin an' Ah only listed fo' de duration."
"Listen, boy," said the sergeant, giving one white-eyed glare at Ulysses. "Head's whah Ah introduce yo' peanut brain to knowledges. De wah an' over, sho' 'nough, but de duration yo' is in fo' now ain't secally commenced."—Co-Operator.

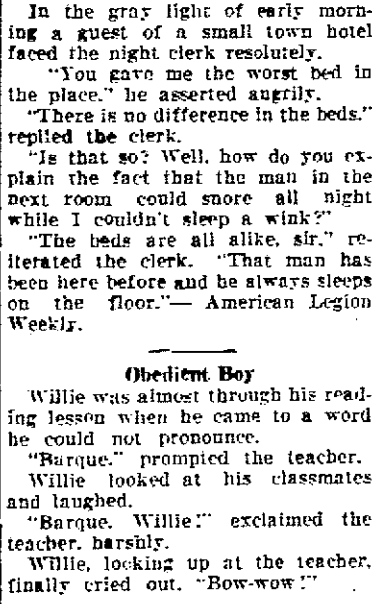

That Model
In the grand light of early morning a guest of a small town hotel faced the night clerk resolutely.
"You gave me the worst bed in the place," he asserted angrily.
"There is no difference in the beds," replied the clerk.
"Is that so? Well, how do you explain the fact that the man in the next room could snore all night while I couldn't sleep a wink?"
"The beds are all alike, sir," reiterated the clerk. "That man has been here before and he always sleeps on the floor."—American Legion Weekly.

Obedient Boy
Willie was almost through his reading lesson when he came to a word he could not pronounce.
"Barque," prompted the teacher.
Willie looked at his classmates and laughed.
"Barque, Willie," exclaimed the teacher, harshly.
Willie, looking up at the teacher, finally cried out, "Bow-wow!"

Artificial Wave Fails To Carry Coal Down Ohio River

(Ashland Independent)
Not one of the 50,000 ton of coal which started on an artificial wave down the Ohio river from mines in West Virginia will reach Cincinnati on that "wave," according to a report to J. A. McDonough, assistant U. S. engineer today. The only unstranded towboat of the nine which started Monday, the Giham, stopped at Lock No. 23, near Maysville, to await the sending of a later wave on which to move its barges to Cincinnati.

The first wave released the towboat Island Creek, which had been stranded for a week in a bar just below Maysville with a line of barges carrying between 5,000 and 6,000 tons of coal, and it was expected to arrive in Cincinnati late Wednesday. But this boat was not connected with the main Kanawha fleet, however, which sailed Monday.

The coal fleet hit its first disaster Tuesday when the Steamer Lane struck an obstruction near Huntington and sank a barge. Later a similar accident befell the "Smith," resulting in the sinking of a second barge. The channel of the river was blocked as a result of the sunken barges, and the two towboats could not pass through the lock, thus halting the other boats in their delay.

The Fleischmann, with its tow, went through Lock 28, but stuck on a bar four miles down the river. Her companion, the Mitchell, hit a bar at Hanging Rock, near Ironton. The Sallie Marmet and Ollie Marmet were stopped by the two sunken barges. The Tacoma and Kentucky, packing boats not connected with the coal fleet, were coming through safely, the lone survivors of the wave.

Two other towboats included in the nine which started were the Crown Hill, which successfully delivered a tow of steel for Pittsburgh at Vanceburg and the Carbon, which brought a barge of coal to Portsmouth.
